

Cabin 4: Greg and Libby Biehl

Step into this high, wide, and handsome cabin and you'll see that the Biehls enjoy entertaining friends and family in their enormous Brown County abode. Creating culinary wonders like nachos and cobblers are pleasant tasks as one works amidst cherry wood cabinets, the hammered copper farmhouse sink, and twin islands.

A hand-carved white oak mantel by local artisan Jerome Sanderson tops the fireplace in the adjoining living room with its woods and wildlife theme. Creature comforts for two-legged beasts are adequately addressed in each lavishly appointed bedroom suite. Cowboy wannabe's will get a kick out of the wild stallion décor in one of the upper bedrooms, complete with a rustic copper wash basin mounted atop a wide board. Each bedroom offers a big cozy bed, armoire-enclosed entertainment equipment, and a morning kitchen that handles midnight snacking or sunrise coffee needs. Elegantly decorated in shades of red, dusty olive, and camel, the master suite envelops you with down-filled chairs, burlled walnut finishes, and sumptuous bed linens. Sipping your Chardonnay from the suite's private porch swing isn't a bad way to end the day, either.